Viktor Frankl, an Austrian psychiatrist, survived the Holocaust and is best known for his book "Man's Search for Meaning", which recounts his experiences as a prisoner in Nazi concentration camps during World War II. He was born in Vienna, Austria, in 1905 and studied medicine at the University of Vienna. Later, he specialized in neurology and psychiatry and developed a new form of psychotherapy called logotherapy, which emphasizes the importance of finding meaning in life as a way to overcome mental and emotional suffering. During World War II, Frankl was arrested by the Nazis and sent to several concentration camps, including Auschwitz. He survived the Holocaust and wrote "Man's Search for Meaning" in 1946, which became an international bestseller. The book is considered a classic in the field of existential psychology and has been widely acclaimed for its powerful and provocative exploration of human experience. After the war, Frankl returned to Vienna and continued to work as a psychiatrist and psychotherapist. He also wrote and published books and articles on logotherapy and traveled extensively, giving lectures on the subject. He founded the Viktor Frankl Institute in Vienna and received many awards and honors for his work. - "Man's Search for Meaning" has an average rating of 4.24 and has been published in multiple editions. - The book is also available in a young adult edition with an average rating of 4.42. - Another notable work by the author is "The Doctor and the Soul", which was first published in 1946, revised and expanded over time. - Other notable works include "The Unheard Cry for Meaning" and "Recollections: An Autobiography". - The author has also written "Psychotherapy and Existentialism: Selected Papers on Logotherapy" and "Mans Search For Meaning / Ultimate Meaning / The Choice", both of which have an average rating of 4.42. - Additionally, the book "Psykologi og eksistens" has been published in multiple editions, with an average rating of 4.33. - Other titles include "Asumir lo efímero de la existencia", "Embracing Hope: On Freedom, Responsibility & the Meaning of Life", and "Der Mensch vor der Frage nach dem Sinn". - The author has also written "Cel care are un motiv pentru care să trăiască..." and "Uno psicologo nei lager: E altri scritti inediti".
